

Up in Smoke

by Stephen Eginore

Taking counterculture to the next level, people numbering in the tens of thousands gathered in the streets of downtown Denver this past weekend to celebrate the legalization of recreational marijuana. The 4/20 Rally, paired alongside the High Times Cannabis Cup, created an atmosphere seldom seen, if ever, in an American city. With ample space to gather and “express themselves,” rallygoers were also exposed to hundreds of vendors selling and giving away everything and anything pertaining to being “green.” Here’s a haze-filled gander at the Mile High City’s smoky rise into the global ranks of weed-friendly.

