

Bowlin' Blues

by Jennaye Derge

Durango is loved for its outdoor options; no matter the day, season or weather, someone somewhere in Southwest Colorado can be found recreating outdoors. But some days, it's just more fun to hang up the cold, soggy boots and lace up a dryer, simpler and decidedly less-tractioned kind of shoe: the bowling shoe.

Durango has yet to maintain a bowling alley, but a short hop skip and jump over to Ignacio will make for a day of dry shoes, warm noses and possibly some hot chili cheese fries for the winner.

Winding up for the release.

Setting up for the shot.

Strike: bad in baseball, good in bowling.

Great form!
