

Ladies Night

by Jennaye Derge

Often, when going out with the girls, the night involves cocktails and cute dresses. But for these Durango gals, when talking about a skirt, it is of the neoprene variety. Once a week, this group of ladies foregoes the typical after-work drink in favor of paddling the river, practicing some rolls and getting in a surf or two – and leaving all the woes and stress of work back up at 29th Street.

The gals shoulder their boats to the 29th Street put-in.

Katie deButts is all smiles in the calm before Smelter.

Killing it through the clutches of Corner Pocket.

Early evening makes for a much cooler, more relaxing town float.
