

Ah-choo!

by Stephen Eginoire

Ahhh, pollen season. If nothing else, it's a feast for the eyes. As blossoming crabapple, apricot, plum and other fruiting trees burst with color all over town, it's one of mother nature's good, old-fashioned tricks for distributing everyone's favorite airborne allergen. Here's a gander:

